A MEETING OF THE BONDHOLDERS OF THE Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railway Company is called to meet WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, October 21, 1886, at the American Security and Trust Company, at 3 o'clock, to consider the report and recommendations of the committee appointed at the meeting of October 9, 1886.

RICHARD A. JOHNSON, 1t*

Chairman of Committee.

TO THE ABSENTED F THE STOCKHOLDERS'
MEETING OF CHASTIAN HEURICH BREWING CO.—Since our list meeting took place three years have passed away. You instructed at that time your board of directors to erect the three years have passed away. You instructed at that time your beard of directors to erect the contemplated brewery buildings on square 22, Washington, D. C. Today your board of directors is proud to state that the task has been nearly completed. It has been an herculean undertaking, and the buildings and improvements as they stand today are in your humble servant's opinion a monument that reflects credit to everybody connected with the enterprise. The brewery proper is not only absolutely fireproof, but also hurricane-proof, and is in all respects the model brewery of the world. Fuil credit is due to your entire board of directors, but more especially to the building committee in charge. It is gratifying to state that not a single life has been lost during the erection of the buildings, and in honor of the successful completion of the same your board of directors has deemed it proper to celebrate the official opening. The delebration is to commence on the 10th day of November and is to last four days.

You can then judge for yourselves whether the enterprise has been carried on successfully or not. Your humble servant will further state to you that the brewery and ice plant has been in successful operation for the last six, respectively nine, months, and that the present output can be doubled and oundrupled with very little additional successful operation for the first six, respectively, nine, months, and that the present output can be doubled and quadrupled with very little additional expense, so as to enable us to successfully compete with any brewery firm in the country as to quality and cost of production.

TWO GREAT EVENTS

Significant Occasions at the Catholic University of America. .

BISHOP KEANE'S SUCCESSOR

Endowment of the Chair of Gaelic History and Letters.

SKETCH OF THE INSTITUTION

The Catholic University of America will be the scene of two events of unusual significance tomorrow. The first will be the meeting of the board of directors of the university for the purpose of selecting three names from which the pope will choose a successor to Bishop John J. Keane as rector. This meeting has been the subject of so much speculation, and its result is so enveloped in doubt, that nothing can be said in relation to it that has not already been hinted or rumored. The meeting will be held in the lecture chamber of McMahon Hall in the forenoon, and will be attended by the following directors: Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore, who is also chancellor of the university; Most Rev. John Joseph Williams, archbishop of Boston; Most Rev. Michael Augustine Corrigan, archbishop of New York; gustine Corrigan, archbishop of New York;

Most Rev. Patrick John Ryan, archbishop of Philadelphia; Most Rev. John Ireland, archbishop of St. Paul; Most Rev. Placide Louis Chappelle, archbishop of Santa Fe; Right Rev. Camillus Paul Maes, bishop of Covington; Right Rev. John S. Foley,
Bishop of Detroit; Right Rev. Ignatius F.
Horstmann, bishop of Cleveland; Right Rev. John M. Farley, auxiliary bishop of New York; Rev. Thomas S. Lee, pastor of St. Matthew's, Washington; Thomas E.
Waggaman of Washington, Michael Jenkins of Baltimore and Joseph Banigan of kins of Baltimore and Joseph Banigan of Providence, R. I.

With these are associated ex officio all the archbishops of the United States, as an advisory board of government.

There are two vacancies in the board, one being occasioned by the resignation of Bishop Keane and the other by the death of Bishop Marty of St. Cloud. Bishop Spalding of Peoria, who is a director, is in Europe, and therefore will not be presented. in Europe, and therefore will not be pres-

All the active members of the board, laymen as well as churchmen, will have a vote in the selection of the nominees for rector. Bishop Keane's name will not, as has been stated, be one of the three senas been stated, be one of the three se-lected, as he has, so it is understood, made a personal request of the directors to take no action of that character.

Other than this, nothing whatever is known about the probable action of the directors, and it is also believed that no publicity will be given to their proceedings in relation to the rectorship until the announcement comes from Rome itself.

Presentation of the Gaelie Chair. The other event will occur in the after noon, and will be the presentation to the trustees of the Catholic University the sum of $50,000 subscribed by the Ancient Order of Hibernians for the endowment of a chair in the university for the perpetual teaching of Gaelic history and literature, and to be known as the Gaelic chair. The national officers of the order, who will arrive in this city tonight and be quartered at the Shoreham Hotel as the guests of the District members of the Ancient Order of Hiberaians, are: P. J. O'Connor, Savanrah, Ga., president; John C. Weadock, Bay City, Mich., vice president; James O'Suliivan, Philadelphia, Pa., secretary; T. J. Durdon, Columbus, Ohio, treasurer. The directors are: M. F. Wilhere, Philadelphia, Pa.; J. C. Weadock, Bay City, Mich.; M. J. Burns, Indianapolis, Ind.; T. J. Mahoney, Omaha, Neb.; John D. Murphy, Norwich, Conn. The national chapiain, Rt. Rev. John S. Foley, bishop of Detroit, is also a member of the board of directors of the

The order in this city is in quite a flourishing condition, having between four and five hundred members, the greater number of whom will attend the exercises incident to the presentation. The latter will take place in the auditorium of McMahon Hall at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and the public will be welcome so far as the limited space will permit. At that hour the visit space will permit. At that hour the visit-ing delegation will be introduced by the acting rector, Very Rev. Dr. Philip J. Gar-rigan, who will deliver a speech of welcome. President O'Connor will then present the gift on behalf of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and addresses will be made by other officers of the order, to which Car-dinal Gibbons will respond. He will make a engthy address. Entertainment of the Visitors.

Tomorrow night the visitors will be given a reception by the local divisions of the order at Carroll Hall, and the next day will be spent in visiting points of interest in and about Washington. Mr. Thomas E. Waggaman will invite them to visit his extensive art galleries, and will probably give a reception in their honor. There is no doubt the delegates will receive a hearty welcome from Washingtonians, being all men of more than local prominence in their particular communities and long connected with the establishment and growth of the organization they represent.

The endowment of the chair is regarded s one of the most significant events in the history of advanced education. The fund subscribed for the purpose represents the subscriptions of 75,000 or 80,000 men, mosty of humble station in life, and many of them untutored beyond the rudiments, and yet they have all contributed to the extent of their means to give this impetus to the progress of higher learning. No other instance of this sort has ever been recorded in the history of institutions similar to the Catholic University, and thus it may be roperly regarded as remarkable.

Other Gifts to the Institution. Other endowments of chairs in the university which have heretofore been made are as follows:

In the school of philosophy Miss Mary D. Peabody of Washington, D. C., has placed three Joseph D. Peabody scholarships in chemistry and physics at the disposal of the university.

The Story of the University. The Catholic University entered on the eighth year of its academic life September 23 last. From 1889 to 1896 its educational activities were confined to the School of Divinity, in which graduate courses in theology were offered to advanced eccles-iastical students, and from which have al-ready issued alumni whose learning and achievements attest the value of the train-ing there received. In 1895 the schools of philosophy and the social science were opened, in whose departments of philoso-phy, mathematics, physics, chemistry, biolegy, technology, sociology, economics, political science and law a good number of young men, who had finished their collegiate courses, matriculated as candidates for the various higher degrees. The Catholic University of America may thus be said to have fairly commerced its work and to have taken the position of a great central college or university in which all arts and sciences will eventually be taught.

The educational plan on which the work of the university has been modeled is intended to afford the largest possible number of individuals the widest oppor-tunity for self-development. The only test for admission to its courses is the mental and moral fitness to undertake them, and it demands no other conditions for its degrees than the attainment of the high scholarship which those degrees imply, and subject to these tests men of all classes, races and religion are accepted as its students.

Schools and Departments.

The work of the university is distributed among the three schools of divinity, philosephy and the social sciences and the institute of technology. The School of Divinity is divided into four departmentsthe department of Biblical sciences, the department of the dogmatic sciences, the department of the moral sciences and the department of the historical sciences. The School of Philosophy is divided into six departments—the department of philosophy proper, the department of letters, the department of mathematics, the department of physics, the department of chemistry and the department of biological sciences. The School of the Social Sciences is di-vided into four departments-the department of sociology, the department of eco-nomics, the department of political science and the department of law. The Institute of Technology is divided into four departments—the department of applied mathematics, the department of civil engineering, the department of electrical engineering and the department of mechanical engineering.

Each of these departments is under the charge of a professor with such associates and assistant professors, instructors, lecturers, etc., as may be found necessary. The Caldwell hall of divinity has up to the present time furnished a residence for the present time turnished a residence for the faculty and students of the school of divinity, and for the immediate future will be able to do so, but for the students in the schools of philosophy and social science a series of dormitories are contemplated, de of which is in course of completion in the or which is in course of completion in the park fronting McMahon hall.

The buildings contemplated by the university will be eleven in number, not including dormitories, residences or sub-ordinate structures. The Caldwell hall of divinity and the McMahon hall of philoso-phy are the only two so far completed, and their massive magnificence gives an excel-lent idea of what the remaining nine build-it gs will be. The Faculty.

A FIERCE CAMPAIGN.

Around Richmond the Contest Over Silver Waxes Hot.

Correspondence of The Evening Star. RICHMOND, Va., October 19, 1896. The strong feeling in the political canvass here is now running higher than ever, and many supporters of the two presidential candidates are resorting to personalities so pointed that disagreeable changes are being repeatedly made. A free silver paper recently made the open charge that followers of the republican and sound money democratic movements here maliciously set fire to a building at the exposition grounds last Thursday night in order to break up the free silver democratic meeting which was being addressed by Senator Thomas F. Grady of New York. This has been openly denied, and the paper making the charge has been branded a "malicious libeler" by the editor of another morning paper here. Charges have also been made to the effect that a well-known minister of the Gospel in this city had been offered a sum of money to write over his own signature an article against the free silverites. It was stated that the sound money democrats had made this effort at bribery. They indignantly deny the charge. These and similar charges give an idea how high political feeling is running daily in this district, and the feeling is rapidly increasing as the election draws near,

Each of the parties is trying hard to strengthen its side by the acquisition of prominent men in the city. A large num-ber of the most influential citizens of Rich-mond have turned their backs on the Chi-cago platform, and have declared their purpose to vote for sound money, either by supporting McKinley or Palmer and Buck-ner. Not since the war has the republican party in Virginia gotten the support of so many prominent citizens. The bankers, real estate people and insurance men are largely for sound money, while a large pro-portion of the manufacturers and mer-chants and the majority of the railroad and transportation men are likewise op-posed to the Chicago platform.

It is understood here that Judge James Keith, president of the supreme court of appeals of Virginia, has decided to support the cause-of sound money. It is stated that the will cast his vote for McKinley. Judge Keith was elected to his position as a member of the supreme court by the demo-cratic legislature of 1893-94. It is understood that he will say nothing for publica-tion on this subject on account of his posi-tion of judge; but it is understood that his personal views on the currency question are opposed to those adopted by the Chicago convention.

Quite a sensation will be developed here in political circles this week, which will probably cast a shadow over the nominaprobably cast a shadow over the nomination of Capt. Lamb for Congress from the third district. It is alleged that in the primary meetings held for the purpose of sending delegates to the third congressional convention to nominate a free silver democratic candidate a miscount was made in one or two prec.ncts, which has of late been straightened out by a recount, and the whole situation is consequently changed. The recount would, it is claimed, bring about such a situation as to defeat the election of Ben P. Owen as chairman of the convention, and on this hinges the tire result. Owen had the power of appointing certain members on the commit-tee on credentials, who threw out the three or four contesting delegates from King William county. With H. M. Smith, jr., as chairman, this result would have been different. Smith was a supporter of Tazewell Ellett for renomination, and Mr. Ellett's nomination depended entirely upon the con-testing King William delegation, which was unseated by the committee on credentials. By the new count these precincts in question are entitled to an Ellett supporter instead of a Lamb supporter, and this, it is claimed, would put in an Ellett man as chairman of the convention. He would have appointed a different committee on credentials, who would have allowed the King William contesting delegation to be seated. This would have nominated Col. Ellett on the first ballot by a vote of 96 to 91. So the nomination of Capt. Lamb is understood to be based upon a miscount in one or two of the precincts. It is under-stood that some legal action may be taken in the matter. The whole affair will probably be exposed here this week.

At the University of Virginia a meeting of the sound money students was held last week in Jefferson Literary Hall, and a sound money league of nearly 300 members organized. The league will poll a strong yote for Palmer and Buckner on November

Not Enough for Two.

From Harper's Round Table. Patrick was the captain of a brick schoon er that plied between New York and Haverstraw on the Hudson! One day his schooner was loaded, ready to start for New York. But Patrick never gave the word to the crew to cast off the hawsers and get under way. Instead, he sat lazily swinging his leg over the spokes of the wheel, smoking his pipe.

The owner of the brick yard, who was also the owner of the schooner, seeing that the vessel had not started and wishing to have the load landed in New York as soon as possible, rushed down to the dock and irately demanded of Patrick why he did not get under way.

THE NEW RECTOR

Hope That Bishop Keane's Successor May Be an American.

SHOULD BE OF HIGH CHURCH RANK

Future Prosperity of the University Depends on the Selection.

SATOLLI SHOULD NOT DECIDE

In all of the speculation heard in town about the selection of a successor to Bishop Keane the note of good will is sounded toward the Catholic University. Protestants join with Catholics in this, and are very hearty in what they say. The desire is general that the institution may thrive. This was publicly expressed by men of eminence at the Carroll Institute meeting, and the sentiment is constantly echoed in private conversation among representative citizens of the District, regardless of creed or party. The university enters into the equipment of Washington as a growing center of education, and as such, with all other such institutions, has a claim upon the friendly interest of the whole commun-

Should Be an American.

Another wish quite as generally heard is that the new rector may be an American, in the large and comprehensive sense of that word. Not simply an American by birth, but an American by education, by instinct, by thorough acquaintance with and affection for the institutions of the country. The Catholic University, it is held, is, and should remain, an American institution. The young men prepared for their life work there are to administer charges in this country, under the country's laws. life work there are to administer charges in this country, under the country's laws, and with all of the opportunities the country affords. Their parishioners will be American citizens. Their whole training, therefore, should be of a nature to bring both thern and those who will look to them for guidance and instruction into close touch with their country and its progress. Bishop Keane's Americanism, it is pointed out, is one of the qualities contributing to one of the most highly respected characters in the Catholic Church on this side of the water. If his successor should not be his water. If his successor should not be his equal in that regard, it would necessarily, to a degree, it is thought, militate against both him and the university.

High Rank in the Church. There are Catholics as well as Protestants who do not accept as altogether sound the reasons given for the report that the new rector is not to be a bishop. They hold rather that he should be a man of eminence both in the church and in the world, the equal in rank at least of the eminent man he is to succeed. The office is one calling not only for learning in the scholastic sense, but for large executive ability and for experience in the management of large effects. ment of large affairs. His name should stand for as much before the country as it does within the church. It will stand in a measure for the university itself. There are many priests of learning and excellence, but, as is suggested, if they have not come to eminence in office in the church work proper, why should the pick for this important place be confined to their number?

Any Bishop Would Take It. It is said that no bishop would care to surrender a life office for one which, according to the announcement in Bishop Keane's case, may have a new incumbent every few years. It is doubted if any bishop would lose anything by giving up bishop would lose anything by giving up the one office for the other. Church promotions are regulated on lines not unlike those obtaining in political affairs. No man loses anything by obliging the President. The late Judge Gresham gave up a life judgeship to go into Mr. Arthur's cabinet served there for less than two years, and then was appointed to another life office of higher grade than the one he had office of higher grade than the one he had surrendered. He then, again, after eight years, gave that office up to go into Mr. Cleveland's cabinet, and had he lived he might have received another promotion. No prelate loses anything by obliging the pope. The bishop who would at the pope's request accept the rectorship of the Catholic University would serve with no anything olic University would serve with no anxiety as to his future. If he held the rectorship as to his future. If he held the rectorship only two years, a better office would be certain to follow that. His prospects, in-stead of being blue, might be red. A cardi-nal's hat might await him.

The Decision Tomorrow. The opinion has been expressed that tomorrow's action by the board at the university in the picking out of three names to be forwarded to Rome will be only a form; that Cardinal Satolli will really name the new rector. Many friends of the university hope that this may prove to be erroneous. Cardinal Satolli, however successful in his mission over here, will not again be a resident of the United States. His future work will be in Europe, and will relate largely to the affairs on that will relate largely to the affairs on that side. But the prelates who will pass on this question tomorrow are citizens of the United States, whose work is here, and whose knowledge of the needs of their church in America must far exceed that of any one in authority abroad. The decision properly is theirs, and it ought not to be rejected or tampered with, and it is felt that it cannot be so treated without the result acting adversely on the fortunes of the university.

INDEX TO ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE PRESS AGENT STORY DENIED.

But Another Story Comes Concerning Mr. Bryan and the Stage.

Vigorous denial has been made of the report that Candidate William Jennings Bryan, prior to his nomination at Chicago. applied for a position as press agent of a theatrical troupe. A dispatch from Xenia, Ohio, says:

"William J. Bryan's attention was called to several newspaper reports. One that he had been upon the stage; another stating he had thought about going on the stage, and still another that he had written a criticism of a play, and had applied for a position as press agent. He said that there was no truth in the report, that he had never been upon the stage, had never written a criticism of any production, and never applied for any position in connec-tion with any theatrical company, and had never had any thought of going on the never had any thought of going on the stage, nor had he ever discussed the matter with any one. He said at the time he was reported as contemplating the stage he was writing editorials in favor of free silver and delivering lectures upon the subject throughout the country. He looked on the matter with considerable amusement."

A special dispatch from Cleveland to the Philadelphia Times says:

Philadelphia Times says:
"Duncan B. Harrison, the theatrical manager, is here today, and in an interview said that William Jennings Bryan had trod the boards in 1884-'85 with Ada Gray's company, and had been an indifferent actor at that. Harrison said he well remembered seeing a representation of East Lynne in Topeka, in which one William B. Jennings figured.

"He then said: 'I have just reached Cleve-land from Michigan. While in that state I saw William Jennings Bryan, and at once I thought I had seen that face on the stage. I racked my memory and suddenly recalled that while in Topeka, Kan., in March, 1885, I attended a performance where I and the leading man had the same face as Bryan. More than that, his every movement was the same as that of the Francis Levison in 'East Lynne' I saw at Topeka. several other theatrical men, and by them my own suspicions were confirmed."

IN KENTUCKY.

Letters From Business Men as to the Political Situation. Mr. H. D. Walbridge writes to The Evening Star, inclosing two letters received by him from business men relative to the political situation in Kentucky:

Mr. D. J. Burchett, who was United States marshal under President Harrison, and a candidate for lieutenant governor last fall, writes as follows: "Your letter received, and will say that if there is no change in matters in Kentucky, Major McKinley will get the state by a good majority. We are all confident of this."

Mr. J. A. Northrup, a prominent gold democrat, writes:
"Your favor of the 10th instant received Senator Lindsay is of the opinion that the state will go for McKinley, and I have been inclined to that opinion for some time. However, our people are fanatics on the subject of free silver. On last Sunday morning my neighbor, T. H. Vaughan found in his hen's nest an egg—a duck egg -that had on it in yellowish cast inscrip that had on it in yellowish cast inscription: 'W. B., 1896, Free Silver, 16-2-1,' and good men, in discussing it, said God Almighty, pointing toward heaven, could only tell how it was put there. With such views what can one think? The egg was evidently intended for me, but my hen house is under lock and key."

Mr. Walbridge himself adds: "As the democratic party is now in the threes of democratic party is now in the throes of political bankruptcy, and as there appears an earnest attempt on the part of the old and discreet democratic leaders to save from the wreck some of its ancient planks. to wit, respect for the federal Supreme Court, sound money, federal authority over mob law, national and individual integrity let me suggest that the wisest and most effective action would be for these gentle-men and their followers to vote for Mc-Kinley and Hobart, who now stand for and represent the essential tenets of what they now claim is pure and unadulterated democracy.'

The Boy's Idea of It.

From the Chicago Interior. A pretty good thing occurred in the experience and opinions of the Rev. Dr. Palmer Hulbert's seven-year-old. "Mamma," he said, "those boys out there abuse me. They say I am an animal."

The mother asked in surprise: "What do they mean?"
"Oh, I don't know what they mean. I suppose it is some more of that Higher Criticism."

GEN. LEE'S RETURN.

He Will Probably Take Part in the Political Campaign in Virginia. It is learned that Consul General Lee is arranging his official affairs in Havana so as to permit him to make a visit to his native state, where there seems to be a demand for his presence in the near future. The business of the consulate is in good shape, and arrangements have been made to place Vice Consul General Springer in charge during the absence of General Lee The latter has not yet obtained leave of absence, but it is expected that that formality will be arranged in a few days.

There are various conjectures as to the particular purpose of General Lee's visit to give the gold democrat a free field against

Assistant Secretary McAdoo Bolts. William A. McAdoo, assistant secretary of the navy, has written a letter to W. J. Curtis, member of the democratic national committee of New Jersey, on election issues. The letter is in response to a request for a public expression of his views on the same. Mr. McAdoo regrets that he is unable to support the Chicago convention nominees and platform, because, he is thoroughly convinced, he says, that the

the United States just at this juncture, but the one which receives the most credence is that it relates to the political situation in Virginia, with a view to his possible nomnation to Congress from the sixth district. The news from that district, whose cen-tral point is Lynchburg, where General Lee was collector of internal revenue, is that there is a disposition for a coalition between the republicans and gold democrats, by which the republicans will withdraw and

It is stated that General Lee is in no respect dissatisfied with his office or with the relations that now exist between homself and the authorities at Havana, but he has undergone a trying and particularly un-healthful season at Havana while engaged in the discharge of onerous duties, and feels the need of recuperation. His return to Washington will afford an opportunity for Secretary Olney to confer with General Lee as to the present aspect of affairs on the island, but further than above stated, it cannot be gathered that the consul gener-al's movements have any significance as doctrines therein are unsound and danger-ous, and would work incalculable injury

Rev. A. W. Ryen of St. Paul's Church, Duluth, is the most prominent pastor, and has the largest church in that diocese, and is likely to be elected bishop. Rev. I. McK. Pittenger of Raleigh, N. C., is mentioned as a candidate for the Asheville bishopric.
